

Why Not Use Self Service Movers?

About 15 percent of us who live in the United States will move every year. That statistic has been determined by the U.S. Census Bureau. The moving companies have come up with various options we can use to move nowadays. One of these options is to use self service movers. Self service movers is a viable option for a lot of people.

You can enjoy more control over the move you are making when you use this moving option. You can be more flexible with your time when you use self service movers. You pack your own things when you use self service movers. This way you will know exactly where things are.

Using full service movers is much different. You may not know where a certain item is if full service movers pack your things for you. It will cost you a lot more to use full service movers too. You will not have to pay an hourly fee to have someone else pack your things for you. You will definitely save a lot by using self service movers. When using self service movers the price for the move will depend on the number of crates you need and how far you will be moving. Some may give you the option of their employees packing your things though if you ask.

This type of moving service is one where the company will drop off the moving crates for you to pack on your own. They will come and load the crates on the truck after you call them and tell them they are ready to be picked up. They then drop the crates off at your new location. After the self movers drop off your crates you can unpack them. This way the self movers are not responsible for any damaged items. Your move will be a lot less stressful if you use self service movers. There is no need for you to deal with a flat tire on the moving truck breaking down. Self service movers are a happy balance between hiring a full service moving company and a do it yourself move. Self service movers is fast becoming the moving option of choice. Using self service movers is an option with many benefits. Women especially like to use self service movers. The self service movers do all of the heavy loading and driving after you pack your things yourself. You can find self service movers in your town online or in the yellow pages of your phone book.

About the Author

For more on moving, goto bestselfservicemovers.com.

Source: <http://biglearn.net>